BIG OIL BOOM DUE HERE SOON, SAYS OIL EXPERT

La Honda Well Will Develop Between 500 and 1000 Barrells Daily Is Prediction This Week

That the La Honda oil field will evelop into a second Signal Hill ithin the nert few months was the artling prognostication made this eek by an oil engineer from the outhern part of the state. This an, who has been investigating the il situation in the hills west of Redood City for the past two months, nnounced this week that the comany which he represents whose name as not yet been made public, had ut up an option of $50,000 on one ell in the La Honda district.

When asked what he considered uch a well as the one in question ould produce, he stated that he acually expected that it would develp from 500 to 1000 barrells of oil a ay.

Active drilling is being continued n most of the wells of this district, nd several of the wells are now proucing in paying quantities. With he expenditure of the capital which ppears to be now available, it is execed that far greater production ill be secured.

The plan of running a pipe line to edwood City and locating a refinry on the marsh near town has been onsidered. It was reported this week hat a move had been made by the outh San Francisco Chamber of ommerce to have the proposed reinery located at that point. This has ot met with the favor of the oilen, however, as it is considered that edwood City would be the logical lace for a plant of this kind.

When asked concerning the fuure of the oil industry in this city, ne of the oil prospectors working t La Honda offered the following:

WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE

I am dreaming of the day when he new La Honda Oil field will beome attractive to all the oil companies in the state, and to all of hose in all of the oil producing tates in the union.

OF THE TIME when the lease men will be busy in buying and selling oil leases to these same companies, and to the independent operaors, who in turn will add to the acivity in this new field.

OF THE TIME when the rig builders will be busy from morning until night erecting new derricks on new locations for wells to be drilled.

Of the drilling crews and well conractors getting their equipment ino place to get their wells started and with the natural speeding up of the drilling crews to see which one can get to the pay sand first.

Of the busy scenes along the highways as the trucks and teams are hurrying their loads of machinery, boilers, lumber, tanks, casing, pipe and all supplies to new locations, each one determined to get on the ground in the shortest possible time.

Of the reports of the drilling wells and the new wells completed, gushing their liquid gold into tanks and reservoirs, thereby attracting the thousands of men and women to the new field as has always been done and always will be as long as oil is produced.

Of the men who will come with their high powered automobiles, their bank rolls and check books to join in this great and exciting enterprise in a new field, with all of the thrills and feverish excitement that only gushing oil wells can produce.

Of the trips to the oil field on the highways that are jammed with traffic; some heavy ladened with supplies and others in lighter cars, all bent on the one destination, the new oil fields, having to take their turn in passing the congested spots on the road, where the pipe line men are laying their lines to convey the oil and natural gas into Redwood City and other peninsula cities to add to the commerce of the world and to the comfort of the district.

Of the visits to the oil fields at night when all life is resting except those who are interested in the new fields with its hundreds of lights shining as stars from the derricks, with the glare of lights from the open forges; with the exhaust from the engines; with the noise of the drills running at top speed and the men bending every effort in their feverish desire to get their wells to the pay sands as quickly as possible and to hear their wells come in with the roar of gas and the columns of oil spouting up over the derricks that are going to make millions for the owners of these wells and the land owners.

Of the new spirit and activity that it will bring to Redwood City and all adjacent cities, not only by reason of the value of the oil and gas, but the type and character of the courageous men who have the nerve to go out and bring these conditions about.

Of the oil field workers that will be buying and building homes in this district. They are the highest paid mechanics on the American continent and are all white American citizens.

Of the increasing demand for all commodities, for better homes, better clothes, better automobiles, better jewelry, for more savings accounts and checking accounts than the banks have ever known before.

Of the new buildings necessary for the housing of the men, the offices for the operating companies, the warehouses for the oil well supply houses; the buildings for the refineries and the natural gas companies; the freight sheds and yards filled with the hundreds of carloads of pipe and drilling supplies.

Of the hundreds of teams excavat- the fields of development.

And finally as the stranger enters that we can point to all of these new developments, new buildings and a crowding hustling condition and say, "This is what oil has done for us."

This will be the life when our dreams come true.

ing the locations for big storage tanks on tank farm located close to rail and tidewater.

Of the airoplanes that will be in daily use by the oil scouts and operators, who feel that they cannot afford to use the slower means of transportation, to whom minutes may mean fortunes.

The feverish activity that will be reflected in all of the cities that are fortunate in being located close to

DECEMBER 1895 SAW TWO FULL MOONS

Thirty years ago this month the people of this old planet were treated to the novel sight of two full moons in one month. This is a very unusual occurance, as it had not happened for 1800 years at that time and will not occur for more than a thousand years again.

At that time the queer actions of some people were attributed to the too great exposure to the full moon. This is now considered erroneous conclusion, however, as the phenomina of the two full moons has not occured in the intervening years, although queer actions have continued, espec-

REDISTRICTING PETITIONERS SEEK FOR NEW HEARING

The plan for redistricting of the supervisorial districts of the county so as to give a more equitable distribution of voters to the different districts is going to die hard, if die it must. The matter was first presented to the board of supervisors of the county by Attorney Barlow Furgeson of Burlingame. Failing to secure the desired revision of the townships by the action of the board, Fredrick Peterson, president of the Burlingame Chamber of Commerce, filed a petition with the supreme court of the state, through Attorney Furgeson, asking for a writ of mandamus to compel the board of supervisors to take the desired action. This was denied by the court.

This week Attorney Furgeson again filed a petition with the supreme court, this time asking a rehearing of the former petition. In asking this rehearing, Ferguson states that in denying the first hearing, the court filed no written opinion.

The desire for a redivision of the county into new supervisorial districts is the result of the present system of representation upon the board of supervisors by which it is claimed that one vote the coastside townships has as much representation on the board of supervisors as twenty votes in other townships.

Mrs. N. A. Andreen spent last week with her sister in San Francisco.

NEW FACTORY FOR SAN CARLOS

PIPE FACTORY TO LOCATE AT SAN CARLOS

With the purchase this week of ten acres of the old speedway tract at San Carlos by the California Concrete Products Company, came the announcement of the securing by San Carlos of this new industrial concern. The company plans the erection of a factory at once to manufacture concrete pipe and tiles. It is understood that the new plant will occupy a force of fifty men as soon as the first unit of the plant is completed.

The tract purchased is east of the old highway, near San Carlos, and just north of Redwood City. This site offers excellent conditions for an industry of this type because of the closeness of navigable water, rail facilities and the nearness of the plant to the Pacific Portland Cement Co. at Redwood City, one of the largest cement manufacturers in the United States.

The tract was purchased by James Lee, San Mateo realtor for the Concrete Products Company from a group of local business men represented by A. D. Walsh.

No "Bums' Rush" At Kiwanis Club

There is no "bums' rush" at the Redwood City Kiwanis Club, at least not at Christmas time. This was indicated Wednesday when a disreputable looking hobo was invited in and given a feed by the the local service club. The tramp came to the Foy Shoppe, where the club meets, seeking something to eat from Mr. Fox, the proprietor. Fox was on the point of sending the man away from his high class resort when several of the Kiwanians asked to have him come in and join them in their luncheon.

The tramp later turned out to be a member of the club, who aside from being engaged in the newspaper business, bears a fairly respectable character. An attempt made later to have him lodged in the county jailed failed utterly, due to the quick get-away of the tramp.

Rev. C. E. Kennedy was the speaker at the Kiwanis club Wednesday, and gave a very interesting talk on Christmas and its relation to Kiwanis. Father Kennedy's remarks were much appreciated. President James Hedge, as he introduced the reverend gentelman, read a letter he had received from the secretary of the San Leandro club, where Father Kennedy spoke last week, in which he congratulated the local club in having a member of the calibre of Father Kennedy.

Special Christmas music was supplied Wednesday by a quartette composed of Otis M. Carrington, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Doxsee and Miss Dorothy Bresse. A chirstmas tree donated by Judge Ray Griffin and decorated by Mrs. J. D. Hedge, added to the festive atmosphere of the luncheon.

EASTERN STAR HOLDS CHRISTMAS PARTY

John Layng most acceptably represented old Saint Nick and distributed presents to everyone. A buffet supper was then served after which the Towne Brothers Orchestra provided music for the dance which lasted until 12 o'clock. About 200 were present.

JURY'S VERDICT IS SUSTAINED BY JUDGE

The motion of Burrett E. Powers for a new trial in the case in which he was defendant was denied last Saturday by Judge Buck. The plaintiffs in the case were Gishichi and Kameo Okada, a Japanense couple who were struck by a car driven by Powers on the Woodside road recently. In the accident Mrs. Okada suffered the loss of one of her arms.

The matter yas made subject of a suit by the Okadas in yhich they were given a verdict of $15,000 by the jury. Following the award, Powers asked for the new trial which was denied.

In denying the motion for a new trial Judge Buck scored Powers for the careless manner in which he was operating his machine upon the Woodside road. He said in part: "the defendant was driving his automobile at an excessive rate of speed over a place known to the traveling public for narrow roads, crooked roads and dangerous roads for speeding automobilists. The defendant took desperate chances at such speed and lost; the female plaintiff being virtually ruined for her life's work by the carelessness of the defendant, and he should pay for this disability as far as possible."

MRS. J. T. O'KEEFE HONORED BY P.-T. A.

The Menlo Park Parent Teachers Association at their regular meeting last week presented to Mrs. James T. O'Keefe the past president's pin of the association. The presentation was made by Mrs. May Lipman of Burlingame district chairman of emblems in a very pretty speech. This was a surprise to Mrs. O'Keefe, and she accepted with a few gracious words. Mrs. O'Keefe had the honor of being the first past president to receive a pin.

CROWDS ENJOY BIG XMAS TREE

Last Saturday evening was a gala event for the people of Redwood City, especially for the younger members of the community, as it afforded many of them their first actual glimpse of Santa Claus, and most of them their first look at a team of reindeer.

Hundreds of persons gathered upon the grounds of the courthouse on Saturday evening to view the beautiful community Christmas tree which had been prepared there and to enjoy the program of music and singing.

The Sciots band from San Mateo Pyramid had been secured for the event and furnished excellent music for the evening. The band met at the fire house and marched down Main street and Broadway to the square. They were accompanied by Santa Claus on his sleigh drawn by a team of six tiny rein deer. These were secured through the courtesy of the San Francisco Bulletin by which paper they were brought from Alaska for the holidays.

Greetings were extended to the people of Redwood City by Mayor Henry Beeger, and the address of the evening was made by Roy W. Cloud. A number of pieces were sung by the audience and several band numbers were enjoyed. Bags of candy were distributed to the children by the Christmas tree committee.

BOARD CONSIDERS ROADBED FOR COASTSIDE HIGHWAY

A survey which may culminate in the much wished for road from the coastside to San Francisco along the roadbed of the abandoned Ocean Shore railway was ordered by the board of supervisors during a short meeting last Monday. The motion instructing County Engineer George Kneese to make the required survey was made upon a motion of Supervisor Frances of the coastside township. The survey as ordered by the board will include that portion of the old road bed across the Martini flat near Montara. If the findings of the engineer are accepted and the road built, it will make a saving of about two miles over the present road.

The subject of using the old Ocean Shore roadbed has been agitated by the people of the coastside for some time. At one time a large delegation of prominent residents of that section called upon the board and presented facts to show why the county should build the proposed road. At that time practically all of the right of way was offered to the county free by the owners.

WIDOW OF BANKER SEEKS $7,500 PER MONTH ALLOWANCE

An allowance of $7,500 per month was asked by Mrs. Lucy Sterns, during the probate of the will of her late husband, Louis Sterns of Atherton. The petition of Mrs. Sterns for the family allowance was filed in the office of County Clerk Elizabeth M. Kneese this week. Action on the petition will be taken by Judge Buck on Monday.

TITLE QUIETED TO VALUABLE PROPERTY

Title to the property of the estate of the late Paul Paulson was quieted this week by the decision of Judge Buck in favor of the plaintiff, Mrs. Alice Curran, in a quiet title suit. A. Porter Robinson was named defendant in the suit. The plaintiff was represented in her action by Franklin Swart, while R. P. Henshall was council for the defendant. The property in question consists of 1:45 acres of land at the intersection of the highway and the Woodside road.

INTERLOCUTORY DECREE

An interlocutory decree was granted Viola Ida Cole this week in the court of Superior Judge George H. Buck. She charged extreme cruelty. The couple were married August 20, 1913.

TOWN BOARD VOTES TO STRAIGHTEN MAPLE STREET

With a view of straightening Maple street, between Franklin and Main streets, and definately settling the property lines of property bordering on this part of the street, the board of trustees of the Town of Redwood City last Monday authorized City Engineer Charles Dimmitt to make a survey of the property lines along this street. There has been some misunderstanding among property owners on this street as to what is the proper line of the street.

CHRISTMAS is gone and the year 1925 nearly so; a few days only left. With the closing of each year comes a general summing up of the events of the past twelve months and a personal stock taking consciously or unconsciously by every individual.

This year which is just going into the discard has been, we think, on the whole one of the best years the world has seen. There has been a great deal of prosperity here and abroad. Little by little the world is recovering from the wounds inflicted by the war of seven years ago. Each New Year finds the havoc caused by that great calamity a little more effaced and the world more happy.

Here in Redwood City the year has treated us kindly. There has been general prosperity and phenominal growth and development. New buildings have been raised by the score. The business district has been much extended, and many new residences have been built.

Throughout the county, building and development have continued. The passing year has seen the Dumbarton bridge begun and half way completed. The greater portion of the Skyline road has been built during this year. The East Side highway has been begun and will be continued during the coming year, eventually to connect with the Dumbarton bridge. Not only in highways has the county shown progress, but the rail transportation has been greatly increased during the year. A new schedule adopted by the Southern Pacific has given this section far better facilities for travel than ever possessed before.

Not only in transportation has the county shown progress. In the matter of communication the increase has been equally marked. During the year the telephone company has expended many thousands of dollars in supplying new equipment to meet the greater demand for telephonic service. Miles of underground cable have been erected. Switch boards throughout the county have been enlarged to meet the growing demand.

In other than material lines the county has shown progress. New church buildings, typifying an increased spiritual awakening, have been erected in several points of the county. Of these Redwood City possesses two very worthy new buildings, one recently dedicated, and the other nearing completion. Schools have been built and enlarged, and still others are planned for the near future.

Altogether 1925 has been a good year to San Mateo county, and especially so to Redwood City. We cannot help a little regret as this year which has brought so much of happiness and progress to us and to our neighbors slips forever into that eternity whose very boundlessness defies recall. But we may confidently look forward to the chubby infant whom we shall all soon find upon our door steps, and whom we shall see grow old and grey in the next twelve months. Never did a year possess so auspicious a beginning, or bring such promise of a happy completion.

RUSSIA AND MONROE'S MESSAGE

THE MONROE DOCTRINE, so often invoked, and so little really read, or understood as Monroe meant it, has some very pertinent advice to proffer us in regard to our treatment of that great nation, Russia. The peasants and workers, who constitute over 90 per cent of the Russian population, have adopted a system of government which appears to suit their peculiar needs. For eight years that system has maintained itself in power in spit of the openly expressed aversion and enmity of the other national governments.

It is therefore certainly within the bonds of truthfulness to class that present system as a living example of such a "de facto government" as Monroe referred to in his celebrated Message of December 2, 1823.

The main idea he there expressed was his desire and intention to keep this New World free from any introduction of the European vicious system of Militarism, the breeder of endless wars.

Thereafter he adds "Our policy in regard to Europe, which was adopted at an early stage of the wars which have so long agitated that quarter of the globe, nevertheless remains the same  to consider the government de facto as the legitimate government for us; to cultivate friendly relations with it and to preserve these relations by a frank, firm, and manly policy."

It is comforting to realize that the chairman of our U. S. Senate's Foreign Relations Committee approves this part of the real Montroe Doctrine, and it is to be hoped that our President, and his Secretary of State may prove equally docile to that very sensible Doctrine, and take action accordingly.

EPISCOPALIANS TO OCCUPY NEW BUILDING

The members of St. Peter's Episcopal church will hold their first Sunday services in their new building on Clinton street, between Brewster and Broadway, tomorrow. The building is not entirely completed but is so far underway that it may be used for the services.

On Wednesday evening the new parish building was used for the first time when the Sunday School Christmas tree program was held there. On Christmas eve a midnight communion and carol service was held in the new building and on Christmas day two Holy Communions were celebrated.

On Sunday last the last service was held in the little old chapel which has been occupied by the Episcopal songregation since 1867. The property occupied by the old church was recently sold to Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Grandi. The building was offered to the American Legion as a club room by the Episcopal vestry, but the Legion found that the cost of moving the building was more than the structure was worth, so it will probably be torn down before many more weeks.

VALLEY QUAIL FACES EXTERMINATION

Apropos of the recent legislation in this county at the instigation of District Attorney Franklin Swart having as its end the greater protection of the valley quail which is becoming so diminished in numbers as to be near extinction, is the following article written for the Stockton Record The article is written by Walter R. Welch formerly justice of the peace of this district and for many years a resident of Redwood City. The writer is now secretary and treasurer of the San Joaquin Fish and Game Association. He is a brother of Mrs. George Eikerinkotter of this city.

What sportman is there who, having had the pleasure of seeing the California valley quail, has not at once fallen in love with him?

Valley quail are found in bevies in all the hills, ravines and valleys, along the edges of the hay and grain fields, in the stock pastures, orchards and vineyards, in fact, most anywhere they find proper cover, water and feed, and are too indiscriminately shot at or hunted. When the bevies are flushed and followed, they scatter and lie well and close and afford great sport in shooting over a well trained dog. They will lie until almost stepped upon and when they do flush, will rise with a great whirr of wings that will startle almost anyone. They are off like a streak of greased lightning, presenting a mark that will test the eye and nerve of the best marksman.

"When the warm sunshine of early spring awakens life to renewed activities, and the buckeye and wild lilac are bursting forth into bloom, ther it is that the valley quail turns his thoughts to love. Well he knows as with pardonable pride, he loudly proclaims the fact to all passersby that he will not be molested during this felicitous season.

Standing erect, majestic, proud, haughhty and defiant, he calls from the top of some old stump or dead bush, "Here" — "Here"— 'Here' "We camp here,' in a loud, clear voice, and the country folk all know that the quail are nesting.

"Having selected his companion for the summer, the pair seek a suitable place to build the nest, secure from skunk, dog and cat, or the thoughtless schoolboy. The nest is usually built in a slight depression in the ground and is chiefly composed of dry leaves and a few spears of grass. A great many nests are built in cocks of hay or in hay and grain fields and are consequently destroyed by thoughtless farmers. The more careful husbandman, however, takes the trouble to mark the nests by driving nearby, a stake to which is attached a white rag, thus being able to know where the nests are and to avoid destroying them while harvesting his crop. He knows the quail are valuable to him in more ways than one, and acts both wisely and humanely in accordance with that knowledge.

"In these nests are deposited from fourteen to twenty-one sharp-pointed oval eggs of dirty white color, covered with dark brown spots. The male assists in the incubation of the eggs as well as in the care of the young and a proud father indeed is he. In about twenty-three days the eggs hatch and the young have often been seen running about from the nest with part of the egg shell attached to them. The eggs all hatch about the same time, and the whole family do not go any great distance from the nest, but nevertheless never remain very near it. I have often gone to a nest and found the eggs all right, none being even picked and returned in a few hours to find all the eggs hatched and the family moved.

"The old folk keep everything very quiet for the first six or eight days after hatching, and no matter how carefully one may watch, he will see or hear very little of them.

"In about ten days the young birds are able to fly a little, they are fed on insects and soon learn that their lives depend on their sharp eyes and swift movements. Contrary to the habits of some birds, the male assists in feeding the young and the family remains together. Often when not disturbed, two broods of young are raised in one season. In this case the male takes care of the first brood after they are about fifteen days old.

"The food of the valley quail consists mostly of insects, grass and weed seeds, to which might be added a litle grain and a few berries, but they are never destructive to crops of any kind.

"Few birds more kindly respond to protection than do the valley quail, but on being much hunted they become very wild, and resort to places hard to get at and shot over. Unlike the Bob White, they roost in trees and are consequently better protected from their natural enemies. Often when flushed they scatter and alight in the live-oaks from whose thick branches it is hard to flush them.

"The different bevies of young birds remain together in the little valleys in the foothills and do not migrate, remaining all summer near where they were hatched. Late in the fall, when the days get short and the evenings and the mornings cold and frosty, they will go to the tops of the hills where they will be able to get the early morning and late evening sun.

"Here three or four families will come together and form one large bevy. The bevies will in turn consolidate somtimes there being as many as 300 to 1000 birds in such an aggregation. These large bevies remain together all winter and do not disband until the next mating season, when those that have mated in the spring will leave the big bevies and go to the little valleys among the foothills to spend the summer and rear their young.

"The unmated birds remain on the hilltops and in the rough places. These unmated birds are always very wild and flush at a great distance in advance of the hunter.

"They flit down the steep hillsides and settle in the thickest cover, thus becoming secure from all harm, as it is next to impossible to pursue them in such places. On the other hand, the mated birds become very tame when not molested and can be seen along the roadsides or wherever proper cover is near. They often build their nests in old straw sheds or hay barns, and I have also found them nesting in the gardens near dwellings, where they become almost as gentle as the domestic fowl. These mated birds seem to realize that the nearer they locate to some farm house, the more protection they will receive.

"In the Golden Gate Park, in the Presidio, in the vicinity of the State University at Berkeley, and on the lawns on the peninsula, south of San Francisco, almost any day can be seen wild valley quail. It is needless to say that these birds are not disturbed in these places. In the morning and evening their calls can be heard, and it is a pretty sight to see them as they run along the paths and across the lawns, and to realize that they are wild—absolutely wild quail.

Held Dog, Saved Children

John McLaughlin, after being bitten by a dog supposedly suffering from rabies, at Marlboro, N. Y., grappled with the animal, and getting a firm hold on it held on until aid came. He said he realized the dog had done as much damage as it could, after biting him once, and he risked further lacerations in order to protect some children near by from possible rabies infection.

DESERTION CHARGED IN SUIT FILED BY HUSBAND

Alleging that his wife, Sarah Fazaldi deserted him on September 10 of last year, Frederick Fazaldi this week filed suit for divorce through his attorney, James T. O'Keefe of this city. The couple were marrled June 28, 1920. They have no community property and no children.

Cleaning Without Odor by the F. Thomas Process

Our many years of experience has taught us that it is impossible to do perfect cleaning with cheap, inferior methods. That is why we found it necessary to invest nearly $500,000 in the equipment of a plant and the establishment of an expert organization to do the quality of work demanded bp our customers.

With the "F. Thomas Process" we not only remove every particle of dust but we return your garments without that usual disagreeable smell of gasoline. Every drop of gasoline we use in cleaning is redistilled and very highly refined.

Raw gasoline—the kind that you buy for your automobile—is full of heavy oils and unfit for cleaning fabrics. It is little better than ordinary distillate and leaves a sickening gasoline smell in your clothes.

Recent British Patents

Applications for patents in Great Britain totaled more than 30,000 last year, according to reports, and although the number is 1,000 less than was received in 1923, there was an increase during the later months. Radio developments were the most numerous subjects of the patents, more than 800 being granted, an increase of 200 over the year before. Many applications from inventors in this field were not pressed, the originators apparently realizing that their ideas were in many cases commercially useless or had become out of date while the matter was pending, because of the rapid progress in this science. Many patents were for household improvements and the inventions were made by women.

The Canny Scot

A real liquid refreshment had been forbidden the aged Scotchman, who felt that his end was near. He called his gude wife to the bedside and asked her would she carry out certain wishes of his when he was dead. She promised to do so, and asked what they were. "Ah, weel," said the moribund, "I thocht it would be nice if ma freen's had a drink afore the funeral." His worthy spouse agreed that it would be. "An' efter they returned." Again she agreed. "I suppose," he added, with a sly grin, "as I winna come back I micht get baith mine noo." —San Francisco Argonaut.

Cannibals Still Exist

Until the recent murder of the Canadian explorer, Charles Penrose, in New Guinea by cannibals, the fact that man-eating humans still existed was not generally realized. This tragedy revealed authentic modern records of the cannibalistic tribes in the outreaches of civilization. In New Guinea they live in the extreme interior, where the country is thickly forested and the tribes are difficult to locate. No traveler has dared to go too far into this interior, although neighboring tribes have given out information on their less sociable neighbors.

How She Knew

The fond husband was dressed and waiting for his wife. He stopped pacing back and forth long enough to inquire: "Plenty of time? And just how do you know we have plenty of time?" His wife calmly applied the powder and answered: "Of course we have. As to how I know, that's simple. You haven't started to swear yet, have you?"

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

LITTLE ONES ENJOY CHRISTMAS TREE

Yesterday the little ones of the village were given a Christmas tree at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Douglass, who personally saw to it that each child was given a present and that they all had a good time. Young Douglass impersonated Santa Claus. He made a good one causing the little ones to laugh at his numerous antics and stunts. For years it has been the custom of Mr. and Mrs. Douglass to invite the little one to enjoy the tree. They enjoy the affair as much as the youngsters.

ENJOY YULETIDE PARTY

Members of the Menlo Park Improvement Club held a Christmas party Menday night in Trinity parish house, at which candy and joke gifts were distributed from the tree, and a program of stunts was given.

Thomas Jones, the well-known contractor and builder, has leased the S. J. Pembroke home for a year. The place was formerly owned by the late E. Black Ryan. Mr. Jones has large contracts at Atherton, San Francisco and San Jose. Mr. Pembroke has moved to Oakland. He is a good citizen, well-liked and loved and it is hoped by his many friends that he may decide to remain in Menlo Park.

The Postoffice Meat Market in the Slinger building and owned by P. E. Hillebrand has been sold to Milton Johnson of Redwood City. He is a son of Ole Johnson and is an exemplary young man with a wide experience in the butcher business. He will do well here. Mr. Hillebrand and wife are planning a European trip early in the spring.

The new bank building is about completed and will be occupied right after the first of the year. The finishing touches are being made this week. The Mercantile Trust Company of San Francisco who has taken over the Palo Alto Bank and a bank at Burlingame, will conduct the local institution in conjunrtion with these banks.

The people of Menlo Park have reason to be thankful for the good things received during the past year and for the splendid prospects for the approaching new year. The outlook for Menlo Park was never brighter Early in the spring the Dumbarton bridge will be completed at which time thousands will pass through Menlo Park and be charmed with its scenic beauty, and will in all probabiliy settle here. The bridge means much to this locality. The rumor that Henry Ford may establish his new plant near here will add to property values and boost business. The organization of the Merchants' Association has brought the business men together in a strong co-operation for the betterment of the town. This organization will help build up the community for it is composed of honest, able, strong fisted and hard headed businessmen, who will work in harmony to bring trade and business to the town. The opening of the new bank adds another institution to the town that will draw trade and the merchants will patronize it and this institution will have a tendency to bring similar ones. The many inquiries for real estate means more homes eventually and more people. Many predict a big boom in realty here after the first of the year. Real estate men are buckling on their armor for the fray and hope to do a tremendous business, similar to that now being done at Florida. Therefore the people of Menlo Park have reason to be thankful for the many favors received and to be received from "Him from whom all blessings come."

Jessie K. Smith and her husband, Norwood B. Smith, owners of the Coxin block, have transferred the property of the San Jose Abstract & Title Insurance Company. The deed was filed in the recorder's office at Redwood City Monday. There are no federal stamps on the instrument which might indicate that there was no consideration passed and that possibly there was no real sale.

On Tuesday a baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Threlkeld, nee Linforth. Walter H. Linforth, the proud grand father, could wish for no better Christmas present. He is proud of the little stranger and predicts great things for her.

The Sacred Heart College, St. Patrick's Seminary, the gramamr school and St. Joseph's Parochial school and the Menlo School for Boys have closed for the Christmas vacation. All will open on January 4th.

The local postoffice did a record business during Christmas week. The volume of business done was larger than at any previous year.

D.r Whitewolf celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday on Thursday last. He is hale and hearty and no one would believe him to be that old. He was born on the Choctaw reservation, Indian Territory, and at one time was the chief of his tribe. As a dancer he had few equals, he always lead the war dances for his people when they were about to engage in battle. Dr. Whitewolf was one of the first men in Goldfield, staking out valuable claims which brought him rich returns that were lost in other ventures. In his younger years the doctor was a medicine man, traveling with a company throughout the country selling Indian medicines. The doctor is a wonderful character who loves to tell of the days of his youth when he wondered over the reservation with his people, care free, hunting buffalo and fishing in the streams. He longs for the happy hunting grounds The doctor is a good Christian and hopes to some day find them in the land beyond, where his joys will find no limit.

Boyd Braden, the local realty broker, yesterday sold a piece of property just beyond the Menlo Theatre on Santa Cruz avenue and owned by Floyd Baird of Redwood City. The price paid for the holding is said to be close to $10,000. It has a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 120 feet. The purchaser is from Fort Bragg and he is to erect several stores and an apartment house on the property.

The John Welsh dwelling off Santa Cruz avenue was sold this week to Angelo Franceshini who is to develop the property.

ADDITIONAL SAN CARLOS ITEMS

Mrs. D. H. Arnold of Palo Alto was a visitor in San Carlos on Thursday.

K. A. Winter, a former resident here and now owner of Graceland Park in Redwood City, has purchased 20 acres of industrial land and is now installing a spur track to be used for commercial facilities.
